

A paradise for lovers of good food

If you thought that The Village Market was only about great shopping, then think again.

It may not be apparent to everyone, but The Village Market offers what is possibly Nairobi's finest single-location dining experience and certainly its most varied in terms of cuisine. For food-lovers, it has everything from fine dining – at Tribe and elsewhere – to a quick snack, hamburger or pizza.

What's more, The Village Market continues to excite and delight in equal measure as new eateries open or replace existing outlets in a steady process of evolution. The net result is that The Village Market keeps on moving upmarket in terms of its cuisine and the dining experience it provides for visitors.

Unique

Since it opened, the Tamambo Tapas Bar, with its unique-to-Nairobi offerings, has set the pace when it comes to good food coupled with some classy entertainment, four evenings a week, that lures visitors to The Village Market even after the shops have closed. And if it matches your taste in music, and if you can get a seat, there is live jazz every packed-out Friday evening as well as occasional nights of rock and roll. The management of Tamambo Tapas says these musical evenings attract a mature, thoughtful, sophisticated and discerning audience.

The Village Market has recently added a smart new Artcaffe, the second such outlet in Nairobi as the brand starts to take off locally after the runaway success of its first coffee shop. This has brought a certain level of sophistication to a prime spot overlooking the entrance. While it may be difficult to get a seat, the terrace of Artcaffe is now THE place to be seen in The Village Market. Here, you can enjoy consistently good food or a cup of coffee with friends after a hard afternoon's shopping.

Popular

In and around the always popular food court on the ground floor, visitors are spoilt for choice, with a variety of cuisine ranging from inexpensive and tasty Chinese to huge German Bratwurst and other delights from Europe's masters of sausage making. And there is food to suit all tastes, including African, Indian, Italian, Thai and Turkish, not to mention a bakery and patisserie with 'naughty but nice' cakes. Taking it further upmarket is the Prime Cuts Bistro, with juicy and tender steaks, mouth-watering lamb chops, grilled chicken and even seafood. Prime Cuts also serves over-filled baguettes, a real delicatessen with fat (and expensive) Italian salamis and other exotic imports hard to find elsewhere in Nairobi.

The Village Market continues to excite and delight in equal measure as new eateries open or replace existing outlets in a steady process of culinary evolution favourite of many. This is the only Nairobi outlet for this particular fast-food operator. Tucked away behind Prime Cuts are its butchery and a

Apart from the always excellent Chinese outlet in the food court, there is the affiliated RoRo Chinese Restaurant on the Upper Floor, offering the very best of Oriental cooking in a more formal setting.

For those who have less time on their hands or wish to combine eating with a visit to The Village Market's bowling alley or water attractions, there's a choice of Steers or Debonairs. For many, Debonairs serves the tastiest pizza in town, while also providing a home delivery service throughout the city from its three outlets.

So, whatever your taste in food, and especially if you enjoy variety and hearty portions, The Village Market is THE place to come to eat out – and, of course, to shop.

WHERE TO EAT

Where to eat?

Village Market Restaurants and Food Outlets

ArtCaffe
Amadeus
Dorman's Coffee House
German Point
Epic Restaurant (at Tribe Hotel)
Khazana
Pomodoro
Arlecchino
Revive Juice Bar
Sofra Turkish Cuisine
Prime Cuts
Taste of Africa
Tamambo Tapas
Steers
Debonairs Pizza
Osteria Gigiri
Roro
Slush
Thai Food

